Sarah Edsall (Edd-sull)

Sarah Edsall began her speaking and training career when she served the Oklahoma FFA Association as Southwest District Vice President in 2008-2009. She holds eleven state championship speaking titles from the FFA and various other organizations.

Sarah inspires audiences across the country with her energetic spirit, genuine attitude and relatable stories of her daily leadership walk. Since she began speaking professionally in 2009, Sarah has shared her message with thousands of people, focusing primarily on student leadership. She is passionate about equipping young leaders with the necessary tools to conquer obstacles and grow into successful students, friends, and family members. Sarah sincerely believes in serving as a positive role model and her lifelong goal is to add value to the lives of others.

Sarah is a graduate of Oklahoma State University with a degree in agricultural communications. In addition to professional speaking, Sarah currently owns and operates a graphic design business and a skincare business out of her home. But her favorite job is being “Mommy” to a red-headed, happy and hilarious toddler named Harper Belle.
